

February 2007

The Advancement of Women – A Bahá'í Perspective

From

The Media Committee

Every year on March 8th the United Nations International Day for Women is celebrated all over the world.

Bahá'u'llah, the Founder of the Bahá'í Faith declared His Mission in 1863 and passed away in 1892. During His lifetime He declared that the happiness and stability of mankind will not be realised until women be equal to men in all respects.

Bahá'u'llah has declared that the happiness and stability of mankind will not be realised until women be equal to men in all respects.

The Bahá'í Writings state that women will achieve equality with men through education. In the Bahá'í writings it is stated that the happiness and stability of mankind will not be realised until women be equal to men in all respects.

The Bahá'í community of Trinidad and Tobago look forward to meeting all members of the public at our annual Women's Conference.

Courtesy: The National Spiritual Assembly of the Bahá'ís of Trinidad & Tobago
Office for the Advancement of Women